

Erik Stevenson

From: davidcol
To: bradsi; dennisad
Subject: RE: capone and Chicago
Date: Tuesday, September 28, 1993 12:41 PM

Dennis, don't spin up another effort on API synergy. As I've said before, I'm trying to get this resolved with bobmu.

From: Dennis Adler
To: bradsi
Cc: davidcol
Subject: RE: capone and Chicago
Date: Tuesday, September 28, 1993 9:00AM

I take it this means I should get pgm mgrs moving on making sure these APIs are in shape to be doc'd and get tested so we can release them? The APIs I think this covers are those for hooking into the right/left pane of the explorer and adding prop sheet pages.

From: Brad Silverberg
To: Dennis Adler
Cc: David Cole
Subject: RE: capone and Chicago
Date: Monday, September 27, 1993 8:56PM david and i met last week with bobmu and jimall to discuss we decided that it's A-list and bob is having a team to determine hhow to wrap the api's under cairo. between us two, there is also a chance that capone won't make chicago, thanks to ole2 being so late, or that the capone we ship is the standalone non-integrated one... nevertheless we decided that we would document the shell extensibility after we have finalized on the api. all agree, however, that we should not use ole2 for extensibility given how late it's coming in and we were told we had made the right decision (which we knew all along but was nice to hear the others, particularly bobmu, say it).