Julie Davis's report raised the issue of whether trial witnesses will be recalled or whether, in the new trial, the prior testimony will be given by a damages expert. That is one of Samsung's objections supporting its motion to vacate all case management dates.

It also raised the question of whether previous trial exhibits need to be modified to reflect the smaller group of accused devices.

Nate: I don't understand the following newly inserted statement: "Many of these issues arose during the preparation of Apple's Expert Report and were specifically identified to Samsung no later than June 24, when that report was served." Please identify where in Julie Davis's June 24 Expert Report she conveyed Apple's proposals concerning limitations on witnesses, deposition designations, advancing pre-trial deadlines, trial exhibits, allocation of trial time, or motions in limine. You presumably have this information handy given the speed with which you drafted this, so I'd appreciate a response within the next half hour.

Thanks,

Anthony Alden
